

Interview Reflection

Looking back at my interview one of the bigger things I would like to reflect upon was my response to the question regarding what was good and bad customer service. I wish I had a more concrete answer and will be looking into that. I felt that most of my responses were appropriate as they were straight to the point and relevant to the matter at hand. I felt like my speech and eye contact were also appropriate as well. I wasn't fully prepared to answer why they should hire me but I had a decent idea as to what to say. I benefitted from this interview because now I am more familiar with and have a better understanding of how the whole process will go and what to expect. As well as building connections and networking along the way.
