

Dear Jean and Joe,

I want to reiterate and say thank you for your time and for extending me the chance to interview at your company. I want to bring back into mind some of my skills and why I am still the best candidate for the job. Not only am I certified in several of the needed languages such as Python and c# but I am also working toward 2 new certs that will help in this position. I also have extensive customer service experience that will come in very handy with dealing with irate customers and helping understand client-side problems. On top of that, I have several soft skills such as problem-solving and great troubleshooting skills in several different topics mentioned in the job posting.

Kind regards, Yoenis
